RICHMOND WALK

The Richmond Walk last Saturday was a great success. Of the thirteen hundred that participated eight hundred completed the trek. Congratulations to all that finished.

MR. FROST CHALLENGE

After having an All Star practice our athletes challenged Mr. Frost in the high jump, hurdles and hundred yard dash. I am looking forward to our stars, Kyle Smith in the high jump, Gordon Young in the hurdles and George Hughes in the high jump winning.

MILES FOR MILLIONS

Led by two teachers from Algonquin College five thousand one hundred of the twenty-two thousand who set out on the forty mile, Miles For Millions walk reached the finish line. In doing so the marchers may have raised five hundred thousand dollars for the eleven welfare agencies which sponsored the walk. All pledges that have been gathered (you should have yours in by now) will go towards equipment and staff for educational broadcasting in Peru, mobile film units for adult education, in family planning, and a refugee assistance centre in Viet Nam. There were several people in our class who made it: John Ferguson, Lars Olson, Toby Pritchard, Cathy James, Marianne Vontobel, Heather Surkan and Wayne Park. They certainly did well.

BOY! DO THESE WALKS GET TO ME!

WARNING TO STUDENTS

Beware of teachers; they are on the rampage, with a constant barrage of mind breaking tests. They have no problem making the tests up, but when it comes time to mark them all we hear are groans and complaints.

SPORTS

BOYS

BASEBALL

Boys houseleague baseball has been going strongly now for about two weeks. The first game was the kind that starts the season off in a funny sort of way. The game progressed quickly to the fielders; they were kept busy chasing balls here and there. In the first inning team one which was losing as the time got a barrage of hits before the bell ring. Then the anxious players started asking about the score. Everyone's answer was negative four to one. Then it was discovered that no one kept score. Of course this was no one's fault. ("Tag it, Billy")

It was called a tie but rumour has it that team one won by one point.

VOLLEYBALL

On April 24 the two top volleyball teams, the Mats and the Warriors made a trip to Bayshore to play a houseleague tournament. The two teams, hardly given any practise were pitted against Sir Winston Churchill (Warriors) and Bayshore (Mats). Our teams were knocked right off their feet. WE played well but not well enough. A volley ball and served beautifully despite the cramped court. But we could not get the ball off the net. This was our low ball because the Bayshore team are experts at this. The games were over in about thirty minutes. Mr. [unclear] volunteering to take some boys home ended up with seventeen boys. [unclear] took six boys (flipping coins picked them); six walked, some were bikes and the rest waited for the other team cars who were coming at five.

GIRLS

On Wednesday last week our Sugarbush team, Captain Crumhens went to Bayshore. The Sugarbush played Bayshore and also lost to them on their first game. However the Captain Crumhens team played Sir Winston Churchill but lost their second game to Bayshore. Maybe the Sugarbush team will do better.

SCIENCE

VAMPIRES

Did you know that there really are vampires. Vampires are bats that live on warm blood from living creatures including humans. Their teeth are especially adapted for cutting through skin. Their stomachs are modified to digest blood. Vampires eat nothing but blood.

Clix de Szara, a Spanish naturalist studied vampires in Paraguay in 1892. Charles Darwin was the first European to discover the bloody nature of the vampire. Long before these men there were tales of blood-sucking vampires. They were said to be corpses that rose from their graves and drank blood to renew their vitality. In obscure corners of the Balkins, a belief in "Utan Vampires" still exists. Beware - If you have found any vampires in your classroom notify the Balkins.

The true vampire is a creature of the tropics and makes its home from Mexico to Brazil. It lives on nothing but blood, and has is one of its adaptations. Its razor-sharp teeth are especially adapted for slicing through blood vessels. The animal is not a danger because of its size. It is small and fast it drinks and because of the small size it is often overlooked.

On occasion a dangerous case of rabies may result.

A vampire is barely over three inches long and its body is covered with gray or brownish, short hair. With its wings folded it walks like a four-footed animal or hops like a frog. The bite of a vampire is so painless that it would not even wake up a light sleeper. - DO YOU HAVE RAZOR SHARP TEETH! OR DRINK BLOOD?

MAN AND HIS WORLD

Man and his World, or Expo 68, will be opening this May. It will be nearly the same except for the absence of people and three pavillions. Only 20 million people are expected this year. Only one pavillion is leaving Canada - the Russian. The Czech one is one is going to Newfoundland and the Bell Telephone pavillion is going to Ottawa (maybe).

The other pavillions will have new exhibits in them. For example the Swiss pavillion will have an exhibit of dolls. The American will have a zoo. The steel pavillion will have the history of firearms. The British one will have a large collection of cars and the Canadian will have an exhibit on Man and Snow-for American Southerners. All the restaurants will be there with all the same owners. La Ronde will still be there for another three years. So will the minirails.

This year Expo won't be the same and it won't be as good but it will come pretty close. It will be the Son of EXPO.

MILES FOR MILLIONS

Anyone on Parliament Hill or driving along the "Miles for Millions" route on Saturday, April 20, could not help but come away with the impression that the teenagers of today can face up to a challenge.

Along a route stretching from Parliament Hill, through Hull and Ottawa and back to the Civic Centre, streamed thousands of teenagers fatigued with the heat and sore feet to complete a forty-mile walk. Even with all the annoyances, in the end it was to have its reward - a feeling of pride which was to be felt for a long while.

The teenagers of today are sometimes looked upon as a poor investment. We as teenagers hope that those who are prone to criticize us as a group and to place us all in the category of hippies and drug users will take note that of the 3,100 people to complete the walk over three-quarters were under twenty.

We the teenagers want to be understood and considered important in our role in today's modern society. We can help.

A note to parents: Give us a challenge. We can face it - and well.

THE MONSTER'S COOKBOOK

RECOMMENDED RECIPES...we recommend that you do not try them.

MIDNIGHT STEW

All the ingredients should be available at your local grocers'. If he doesn't have any of these things, put him in the stew too.

In a large black cauldron, at least fifty years old, place the following:
2 bat wings (both must be left wings from the same bat)
6 unicorn horns (if no unicorn is available, $\frac{1}{2}$ dozen dinosaur knickles will do)

The juice from three stones

3 trout legs

1 tubeless tire tube

Add one gallon of swamp water and bring to boil. Then dump the cauldron upside down on the ground near a tree stump. Cover the cauldron with a cloth then place an open can of beans on the cloth, now sit down on the stump and eat the beans.

POT ROAST

Take a large pot, large enough to hold twenty gallons of water and roast it. We recommend that you use a tenderizing agent before roasting the pot, a sledge hammer will do.

GREEN APPLE PIE

1 dozen red apples, finely chopped

1 dozen bandages, left over from the ones you didn't use on your fingers while finely chopping the apples

1 pie crust (You should always have a lot of crust on hand, then people can always say you have a lot of crust)

Place pie in oven with hands. Pies should be done a just a few minutes before the hands. Place the pie on a windowsill to cool from seven to ten weeks. On the seventh week the crust should begin to turn green and by the tenth week you should have a very tasty green apple pie.

BONNIE AND CLYDE

I guess that now Bonnie and Clyde have left the Somerset for the last time I can give away the plot but not the ending. Bonnie Parker was played by Faye Duna-way, and Clyde Barrow was played by Warren Beatty. They meet in a small town in the South where they join up with a gas station attendant and turn the film into a dream world for the gang. The bad guys can't always win and don't. I won't tell the ending but I will say this : It was a very worthwhile film to see.

IN THE HEAT OF THE NIGHT

It all starts when a murder is committed. Sidney Poitier who played a homicide expert once accused of the crime of refusing to assist the Alabama police. The police catch suspects and are about to book them when Poitier uncovers the real murderer.

Rod Stieger played a police chief who changed his views on Negroes after working with Poitier. Stieger's marvellous acting in the film, won him an academy award and in my opinion he deserved it.

THE FLOWER PEOPLE

If what the town council and Mayor Rice say is true, then, this summer, Ottawa will be bracing itself against an onslaught of hundreds of hippies who will bring with them their infinite interest in protest marches, political mobbing; their usual place on the front pages of Ottawa's newspapers etc. Decent civilization will, of course, not be like this. We must accept the era of the teenage hippy as part of life.

Hippies are young people who believe in complete freedom; freedom in the way they dress; the way they wear their hair, and the way they carry off their everyday actions. "Love-ins" and protest marches are also a part of their part of their liberal life, at which times riotous sessions take place, and the hippies, as a group, express their driving urge to spread love and peace, or protest loudly against war.

Adults openly reveal their bitterness towards hippies, blaming them for being high school and university drop-outs, entering society without conventional dress or manner; some even originating from decent homes!

Grown-ups say we live in a society of fixed rules; the majority always wins and the hippie has no right to rebel. Canada needs skilled young people in her labour force, for original ideas and influence, and since hippies do not believe in work, they deprive Canada of this, forcing her to open her doors wide for immigration.

The fact that hippies beg and steal for their needs causes taxpayers to give up large amounts of money, and hippies who take LSD and marijuana ruin their life, killing themselves at an early age.

But, in the ways of the white man, the angered one tends to forget the better points. For example, who ever mentioned that hippies are the only ones who dare to protest against our existing government and the security minded citizen. "Love Thy Neighbour" is remembered by all hippies, and is represented by nature's most beautiful thing, a flower, while, unfortunately, the 20th century has completely forgotten this instead, idolizing a world of materialism.

Perhaps it is true that hippies menace society by finding no virtue in work. But otherwise, they are actually saving us from becoming a world of human robots; reminding us that we are still creature of flesh and feeling, working for one common goal, Peace and Friendship.
